Among trumpeters and madrigal singers for the madrigal dinners at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, this is Glen Erickson of Antioch. The elaborate dinners are staged in the manner of a 16th century feast. Glen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Erickson of Rte. 2, Antioch.

CD Seeks Shelter Sites

Buildings are being sought in the downtown area to serve as shelter in the event of a natural disaster.

The Antioch Civil Defense today made the bid in trying to obtain space to offer a place where the shopper may go while in the downtown area.

Ed Frazier, Civil Defense coordinator, and Police Chief Jack Davis inspected the basement of the new Ben Franklin Store under construction on Lake Street.

Arrangements are being made to contact Chester Dubas for possible use of the building in the event of a disaster.

Lake County voters went to the polls Tuesday in a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to vote on a proposed new state constitution and approved it by vote.

Less than 55,000 of the county's 145,000 registered voters went to the polls to cast their ballot for the new charter.

There were five questions on the blue ballot in Tuesday's special election.

Other propositions were election of 177 members of the Illinois House from multi-member districts by cumulative voting was approved by county voters.

Appointment of judges by the governor from nominees submitted by judicial nomination commissions was approved by Lake County voters, but was defeated elsewhere in the state.

Lowering of the voting age to 18 also met defeat.

Lake County voters approved the proposed constitution 23,179 to 21,821 on the basis of 195 of 231 precincts tabulated.

County Clerk Grace Mary Stern said today she didn't believe the margin would be upset when the results of the missing precincts were tabulated.

She said the canvass of the results would start Thursday and the official tabulation completed by Saturday.

Lake County voters favored the appointment of judges 26,984 to 21,649 but voters in Cook County and elsewhere in the state differed and the proposition passed.

Area residents supported the retention of the death penalty 29,519 to 19,426, and favored keeping the current voting age 26,640 to 22,655.

Illinois was the fourth state to vote on a new constitution. Other elections were held in Arkansas, Virginia, and Idaho.

The Illinois charter, offered Tuesday, was the product of the Sixth Illinois Constitutional Convention, which worked from last December until early September to draft it.

Area delegates to the convention were Mrs. Mary A. Pappas of Lake Bluff, Mrs. Jeannette Mullen of Barrington, John D. Wennum of Lake Forest and Jeffrey R. Ladd of Crystal Lake.

The offered constitution was composed of a Preamble and 14 separate articles.

The articles include the bill of rights, powers of the state, suffrage and elections, legislature, executive, judiciary, local government, finance, revenue, education, environment, militia, general provisions and constitutional revision.

4-H Gun Safety Training Opens

The 4-H organization of Lake County is sponsoring a series of clinics or training sessions in a number of the projects offered to youngsters enrolled in 4-H, according to Bill Messerschmidt, Assistant Extension Adviser in Agriculture.

One of the more than 100 projects offered is Gun Safety. In this project 4-Hers are taught basic rules required in handling a firearm. And then they go on to learn the specific parts of a rifle.

In order for the 4-Her and the 4-H adult leader to effectively participate in this project within their own club, a county-wide Gun Safety training class was started on Saturday, December 6th.

The clinic is organized and taught by Steve Townsend of Lindenhurst. Townsend is a patrolman for the Round Lake Beach Police Department and is a qualified gun safety instructor for the beginning unit of the project.

The initial session involved four main points. The 4-Hers and parents were first told the objectives of the course. Then the various aspects and parts of the rifle were explained. The third step involved actual training in the use of the firearm. And finally there was a question and answer period.

Townsend condensed the points on safety into the "ten commandments" of Gun Safety.

The first session proved to be very successful with over three times more people in attendance, 18 4-Hers and parents, than at last year's first clinic. The series of clinics will be held either monthly or bi-monthly, with the next one being in January on the first or second Saturday at 10 a.m.

If any parents or youngsters, not in 4-H, are interested, they may wish to attend one or two of the sessions. For more information call Mr. Townsend at 356-2202.

Resident Asks Return Of Traps

About five years ago, H. E. Worst constructed two small animal traps to use when he retired to his home in Antioch.

About 1 p.m. Thanksgiving eve, someone took the traps from the rear of his home.

"Someone is always taking the joy and happiness out of life," Worst sadly wrote. And he appealed to the person who took them: "won't you please bring them back, no questions asked."

Anyone having any information on the missing traps may call Mr. Worst at 395-2195 or write him at RFD 4, Box 144A, Antioch.

Ogilvie Praises Lake Citizens

Speaking to more than 500 persons attending the College of Lake County Recognition Dinner at the Illinois State Park Lodge in Zion, Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie paid tribute to the many dedicated men and women who have made magnificent contributions toward making the College of Lake County "a stronger and more viable academic institution."

The governor expressed delight in being afforded an opportunity to participate in the recognition ceremony and commented, "Such opportunities are rare—not only here in Lake County, but all over Illinois. For the dedicated citizens who give so much of themselves to improve their communities are usually so busy making things work that it is difficult to corner them long enough to pat them on the back. Tonight, however, it is our turn. Those of us who share in the responsibility for administering and funding the college are going to make them sit still and accept our congratulations."

In a departure from his prepared remarks the Governor expressed regret that state funds to help construct permanent facilities at the College site were not now available due to the pressures on the financial resources of the state and noted that his administration has a history of strong financial support and continuing dedication to public education in the state.

Before the governor spoke, Dr. Lawrence C. Day, a trustee of the College, accepted the deed for the mid-county 180-acre College of Lake County site from A. Harold Anderson and Paul W. Brandel. Recognizing that the contributions of all the individual present were too numerous to mention, the Governor cited the land donors as "the kind of far-sighted men who form the cornerstone of educational and charitable institutions all over Illinois. Their quiet generosity knows few bounds, and this college one day will stand as a great monument to their spirit of dedication and good will."

In addition, Gov. Ogilvie recognized the Esper A. Petersen Foundation for its generous financial donation; board members who have given freely of time and leadership; and concerned people, "each of you, who have played important roles at every step of the way: in bringing the idea from germination to fruition; in winning approval for the referendum needed to get us this far; and in providing thoughtful advice on how to give the college academic programs substance and vitality."

F. James Lumber, chairman of the College Board of Trustees, and Dr. Richard Erzen, President of the College, presided at the dinner ceremony and extended the College's thanks to the people of Lake County who were active in establishing the two-year College, who worked to achieve voter support of several referenda, who labored on career advisory committees, and who gave of their financial resources to make the Recognition Dinner possible and a success.

Village Receives $1,013 In Taxes

Antioch's treasury has been sweetened by $1,013.57 as its October share of state income tax collections.

The figure brings to $5,734.24 collected to date this year.

Lindenhurst was paid $764.81, making its fiscal year collection at $4,326.47. Lake-Villa received $373.65 for its fiscal year total to date of $2,113.69.

The amount paid to all municipalities and villages was $139,842.66 for a fiscal year total so far of $790,496.37.

Illinois villages and cities received $3,353,008.65 and the counties received $646,494.57. According to provisions of the Illinois income tax law, counties and municipalities are paid their respective shares of income tax proceeds on the basis of population.

This far in Fiscal 1971—which began July 1—the cities have received $18,962,358.60 and the counties $3,682,471.02, Gov. Richard Ogilvie said.

All this money, he continued, represents either increased capacity for local government to serve its people or the opportunity to reduce the demand on the local taxpayer to meet the costs of ongoing program.

The decision in each case is in the hands of the locally elected officials, since the money is distributed on a "no strings" basis, Ogilvie concluded.

Tax Guides Available To Farmers

Farmers may obtain free copies of the 1971 Tax Guide from the County Agricultural Extension Adviser's office.

The Guide explains in everyday language how to prepare and file income tax returns, states Ray T. Nicholas, Lake County Extension Adviser.

It also contains illustrated examples which apply to actual farming situations and sample returns keyed to text explanations, reported the Extension Adviser.

The 1971 Farmers Tax Guide, which emphasizes the importance of good records in filing a proper return, is prepared by the U. S. Treasury Department's Internal Revenue Service with the advice and assistance of the Federal Extension Service.

Anyone desiring a free copy of the 1971 Tax Guide, may obtain it by writing or phoning the adviser's office at P. O. Box 267, Grayslake 60030 or calling 223-5844.

Copies may also be picked up at the Extension Adviser's office in the new Extension Service Building on the Lake County Fairgrounds.

Catholics To Start Training Deacons

A training program to provide deacons for the Archdiocese of Chicago will begin Feb. 2, the Most Reverend Thomas J. Grady, Auxiliary Bishop of Chicago, has announced.

Bishop Grady, who directs the priestly formation program for the Archdiocese, is chairman of the Archdiocesan Permanent Diaconate Committee.

The Chicago diaconate program, under study for more than a year, has received final approval from John Cardinal Cody, Archbishop of Chicago. Last spring, Cardinal Cody established the Archdiocesan Office and appointed Rev. John D. Ring as executive director.

The Chicago program is the 11th diaconal program launched in the United States since the American Bishops received permission from the Vatican to ordain permanent deacons. The local program will consist of two years of training, two nights a week, for married or single men of 33 or over who want to serve the Church and community as permanent deacons.

A permanent advisory committee and four subcommittees on (1) training, (2) recruitment, (3) screening of candidates, and (4) public relations and education have developed the two-year Chicago program under Father Ring's direction.

The main training center will be at Quigley Seminary, North, 103 East Chestnut Street. All candidates will come here for their theological training, on Thursday evenings.

Six satellite training centers have been set up in the white, black and Spanish-speaking communities of the Archdiocese, where candidates will receive specialized pastoral training near their homes on Tuesday evenings.

The Tuesday and Thursday sessions will be from 7:30 to 10 p.m.

A satellite center is at St. Mary of the Lake Seminary, Mundelein, under the direction of Father Gerald O'Brien.

Applications are currently being accepted and processed at the Archdiocesan Office for the Permanent Diaconate, 1300 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60605 (telephone: 427-5393).

Heart Fund Chairman Named For 1971 Drive

Dr. Erich Weis, President of the Heart Association of Lake County, announced the appointment of Jerome H. Lorber, President of the Lakeside Candy Co., Inc. in Zion, Illinois, as Chairman of the 1971 Heart Fund Campaign; and Lee R. Fleming, President of the Zion Benton Hospital, as Honorary Chairman.

Lake County has a goal of $79,500 as its contribution to the fight against diseases of the heart and blood vessels, said Dr. Weis. These diseases, he said, will be responsible for about 60 per cent of the approximately 49,400 deaths which were estimated for this state.

A year ago, he reported, the Heart Fund in this County received a total of $59,624 from all sources.

Dr. Weis emphasized that although the heart and blood vessel diseases are now responsible for about 53 per cent of all deaths in this nation, dramatic progress has been achieved since the onset of massive research programs begun in 1950; a year after the first Heart Fund Campaign. He noted, for example, that there has been a decline of about 20 per cent since 1950 in the cardiovascular mortality rate for persons aged below 65. The death rate associated with high blood pressure has dropped 63 per cent, the death rate from stroke is down 35 per cent, the rate from heart attack is down about 2 per cent, and that from other cardiovascular diseases is down about 27½ per cent.

The Heart Fund Campaign will be conducted throughout February — Heart Month.

The Christmas Light

Just over 50 years ago a businessman with a bright idea invented Christmas lights and put the damper on candles that were admittedly beautiful but hazardous to have around highly combustible materials.

Though New York inventor Albert Sadacca sold only 100 lights in 1917 when the "novelty" was first merchandised, Christmas lighting like electricity became an integral part of Yule-time cheer and the national holiday.

The first lights were simply a number of flashlight bulbs wired together and powered by batteries.

For the next Christmas season, Sadacca went one better and with paint and imagination turned the clear glass flashlight bulbs into a multi-colored string of Christmas lights.

According to Commonwealth Edison Company, this season customer's in the utility's service area alone will use over 300,000 kilowatts of electricity for decorative lighting inside and outside the home.

That's about four times the electricity required to illuminate all of the city of Chicago's street lights, alley lights, traffic signals, subway lights and miscellaneous bulbs.

How many Christmas lights will 300,000 kilowatts of electricity illuminate?

An Edison spokesman pointed out that the wattage rating of bulbs vary widely.

But if the highly popular 7½-watt bulb was used as a standard, 300,000 kilowatts would turn on about 40 million Christmas lights.

Helping The Police

In all modern societies which have broken down and suffered revolutions large segments of the people have been turned against the authority of the state. In a democracy this authority is represented in the persons of law enforcement officers, who enforce the laws of freely elected representatives of the people.

Law enforcement officers do not, of course, make laws; they are not responsible for them. They have the duty to enforce them and they must be enforced if there is to be order and progress in society. In recent years some of those discontented with the pace of progress or with American institutions, a minority, have resorted to attacks on policemen or the bombing of police stations.

Attorney General John Mitchell and twelve representatives of the nation's police chiefs recently agreed on recommendations to be submitted to President Nixon in an effort to combat terrorist bombings and attacks on policemen. They include among other things increased aid from the FBI to local police departments under terrorist pressure. They reportedly also include new laws in some areas providing stiffer penalties for attacks on policemen.

There should be no doubt about the seriousness of the campaign of attacks on law enforcement officers in this country. Respect for the law, and those who enforce it, are fundamental necessities for the functioning of a free society. Without it, that society is in mortal danger.

Abbott Promotes David Beach

The Hospital Products Division of Abbott Laboratories has announced the promotion of David J. Beach to assistant product manager.

He joined Abbott in 1967 as a pharmaceutical sales representative in Eugene, Oregon, and, prior to his new position, had hospital sales responsibility in Seattle, Washington.

Beach obtained a B.S. degree in pharmacy from Oregon State University in 1964 and was a practicing pharmacist until joining Abbott.

He is a member of the Oregon State Pharmaceutical Association, American Pharmaceutical Association, American Society of Hospital Pharmacists, and Phi Delta Theta Alumni Association.

Beach and his wife, Margaret, and their children, Christopher and Douglas, reside at 741 Liberty Bell Lane, Libertyville.

Student demands of previous generations were simple. In the classroom they consisted of a finger extended in the air and an anxious look.

If the cost of living continues to rise, newlyweds may have to do without some of the things their parents never could afford.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" is the topic of the Lesson-Sermon to be read at all Christian Science churches Sunday.

"God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea," reads a verse from Psalms.

The supporting commentary from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy includes this citation: "Jesus said: 'I knew that Thou hearest me always; and he raised Lazarus from the dead, stilled the tempest, healed the sick, walked on the water. There is divine authority for believing in the superiority of spiritual power over material resistance.'"

The public is welcome to attend services at First Church of Christ, Scientist, BEACON HILL, Rte. 173 and Harden, Antioch, Ill., at 11 a.m.

Sequoits Win Two Over Round Lake & Warren

Antioch had another tough week-end, facing two conference rivals, Round Lake and Warren. In the past our team has been plagued with poor shooting and has been unable to hit the boards with consistency.

These problems were dropped immediately, as the Sequoits up-ended the Panthers by hitting 57% of all shots from the field. Keith really did the job this weekend. His movement pulled the defenders into the lane. This opened up the outside shots for Tim Mieuire, Tom Martin, and Jeff Williams. The Sequoits produced a well rounded scoring attack, the first five all produced scoring in the double figures.

Both Tom Martin and Steve

Bentel had foul trouble in the Round Lake game. The rest of the team did not help Tom out on defense. Tom received a tough assignment in guarding Kurt Blank, a conference standout. Steve, on the other hand, is becoming a little too aggressive at times. I will admit that he has received a few bad calls in the past few weeks.

In the Warren game Antioch's court play left something to be desired. Our turnovers hurt us in important situations in the game. We also had a hard time breaking the zone defense that Warren used. The Warren zone stopped the outside shooting of Jeff Williams and Steve Bentel. Without a doubt the outstanding player this weekend in my view goes to Keith Bolton, the 6'6" senior for Antioch. Keith finally went to the basket and gave Warren defenders trouble throughout the night. Keith also showed fine strength on the boards.

Both Tom Martin and Tim Mieuire revived the Sequoit defense. Tom made some fine moves on the Warren opponents as he drove around the baseline for the easy layup. Tim Mieuire did a fine job also, hitting long shots and getting the ball in to Keith Bolton.

Antioch's brightest feature this year has been its accuracy on the charity line. This accuracy on the line prevailed and helped pull the game out of the fire.

NIU Extends Applications Deadline

Northern Illinois University may extend the deadline for freshman applications for fall 1971 in order to garner more applications from prospective students and allow more time for students to make their decisions definite.

The latest admission reports from Northern show a 16 per cent decline in active applications from a year ago.

President Rhoten A. Smith of NIU stated that there is no reason to suspect that enrollment will be down at Northern next fall and there is no cause for alarm at the drop in applications.

The downturn in the economy and the increase in tuition while junior colleges are growing were two reasons pointed out as causative factors in the slower admissions application situation.

Northern's current enrollment is nearly 23,000 students. It has been suggested that a ceiling of 25,500 students be placed on NIU's enrollment at some future date.

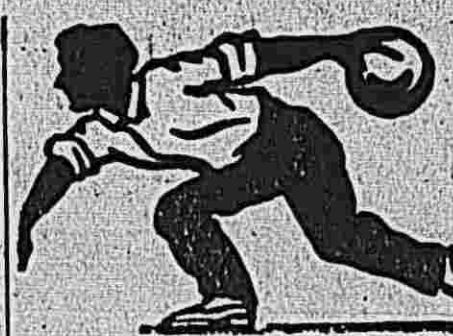

This would make Northern the second largest university in Illinois.

THE ANTIOCH NEWS-6

Warning: If Ice Is Only One Inch Thick, Stay Off

Frozen ponds, lakes and streams can be treacherous. They can plunge the unwary into shocking, breath-snatching frigid water before he can scramble to safety. And only too frequently they refuse to give up a victim until he drowns or life is frozen out of him.

The first rule of ice safety is to avoid any possibility of falling through the ice. But if you live in this section of the United States where winter means freezing temperatures, it's possible you'll some day need to rescue yourself or someone else.

Any statement about ice thickness and safety implies that someone has to check—and that's the main problem. Only too often no one checks ice thickness. Or victims are not aware of peculiar circumstances that make the thickness or solidity of ice vary from point to point. First, start with this short set of rules:

If ice is only one inch thick, everyone stay off.

When ice reaches a thickness of two inches, it's safe for one person only. (Because skis distribute weight, it takes less than two-inch ice—about 1 1/2 inches—to support a person wearing them.)

At three inches, ice will support small groups in single file.

At four inches or more, most activities—skating, skiing, sledding, ice-fishing—are safe. An exception is snowmobiling; the machines with passengers can weigh from 600 pounds to half a ton, and even allowing for their wide treads, they must have several additional inches of ice.

The kind of ice as well as its thickness requires checking when heavy vehicles are used. Ice that is granular and porous as the result of repeated thawing and refreezing can be unsafe at thicknesses that would be reliable as hard ice reminds the Lake County Safety Commission.

Regardless of ice thickness, there are still important safety rules to follow. For example, wherever possible use ice at supervised areas such as those operated by a park system. Stay off ice during thawing spells; prolonged freezing temperatures are necessary for ice to freeze solidly. At the "freeze border" along the centerline of the nation, people usually are aware of the necessity for checking ice conditions often. Yet even in northern locations, thaws occur in the middle of winter, and lagoons, ponds and lakes often become extremely dangerous.

Also, wherever the water level fluctuates, as in lagoons and reservoirs where water can be released, ice can form a sort of natural bridge from shore to shore. Such ice may be inadequate support for a skater, skier or snowmobile crossing it, and if you do break through, it might be difficult or impossible to clamber up on the ice shelf.

Use a shallow-water area such as a pond, lagoon or small lake for skating. Ideally, the body of water should not be more than waist deep.

Never skate alone. Stay with a companion and keep close to shore, especially at night.

Never gather on the ice in large groups; ice fishermen should spread out.

Never drive a car or truck onto the ice.

Never build a fire on the ice.

If you are alone and you accidentally break through the ice, don't try to climb out. Instead of grasping the edge and trying to pull yourself up, extend both arms along the surface of the ice to spread your weight. If you have a knife, axe or other sharp object, dig it in to get a grip on the slippery surface. While doing this, kick your legs vigorously. This will lift your body up to the water surface, propel you forward, and make it easier to slide onto solid ice. ROLL AWAY from the weak spot before getting to your knees or standing up. If ice continues to break, keep up flutter-kick and work your way toward shore and possible rescue. All this will generate body heat—a life-saving plus says the Safety Commission.

Simple rescue equipment—ropes, poles, ladders or planks—should be kept handy at skating areas in case of accident. But even a bolt or jacket will serve the purpose, keeping the user a safe distance from the hole. If the victim cannot be reached from the shore, DO NOT WALK to him and DO NOT STAND on the ice—lie flat and extend a ladder, plank or similar device. When he has grasped it, pull him to safety.

Several persons—depending on ice conditions and how far the victim is from shore—can form a human chain by lying flat on the ice and holding onto the ankles or skates of the person in front. Together they can work their way toward the victim. Then the foremost person grasps the victim's wrists and the entire line of rescuers wriggles back to safety.

The Safety Commission says that quick, vigorous, well-thought-out action will help prevent excessive ice-breaking and needless exhaustion and should result in prompt rescue.

Dropout Vets: Here's Way To Continue Your Education

John B. Naser, Director of the Veterans' Administration office in Chicago today described ways that servicemen and veterans—especially high school "drop-outs"—can continue their education.

Naser said one of the ways was through the Predischarge Education Program (PREP), which helps servicemen on active military duty earn high school diplomas or prepare for higher education or vocational training.

Another program provides tutorial assistance above the high school level for veterans and servicemen alike who study under the G. I. Bill. This can be used to fulfill requirements for admission to schools of higher education or for refresher courses to enable a veteran to qualify for enrollment.

Naser noted VA pays servicemen in PREP up to $175 monthly for the regular costs of tuition, fees, books and supplies. The actual amount is based on the actual amount of the course.

The serviceman receives a lump sum payment when he enrolls in remedial, refresher, deficiency make-up or other courses required for educational programs above high school level.

Naser explained that servicemen must have at least 181 consecutive days of active duty after January 31, 1955, to be eligible for PREP, and pointed out that this benefit is not chargeable to G. I. Bill time earned during military service.

Naser urged servicemen interested in PREP to discuss the program with their base education officers and, if courses are available, to obtain VA application Form 21E-1990a. This should be completed and returned to the base education officer of the VA office at P. O. Box 8136, Chicago 60680.

Under the tutorial program, VA will pay up to $50 monthly in tutoring fees for a maximum of nine months to prevent eligible veterans and servicemen from falling in a subject essential in courses of study. As in PREP, costs of tutorial service are not

It's Time To Buy Your Christmas Tree Again

Christmas carols, stringing popcorn, hanging stockings, smiles and children's wide-eyed joy—the mirth and festivities of the Yuletide are most often enjoyed around a Christmas tree.

In selecting just the right tree for decorating, most people look for a tree that is healthy, free from damage, and well-trimmed. They generally want a tree that tapers gently from a full bottom and has an ample number of branches for hanging ornaments.

U. S. grade standards for Christmas trees, established over a decade ago by the Consumer chargeable to veterans' educational eligibility.

Veterans and servicemen interested in tutorial assistance were advised to get a VA application (Form 21E-1990T) from their school, base education officer, or the VA office at P. O. Box 8136, Chicago or the veteran may visit the office at 2030 West Taylor in Chicago. When completed it should be returned to the VA.

and Marketing Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, can help you choose a tree that has these characteristics. The grade standards require that a tree be:

Fresh—with pliable needles that are firmly attached to the branches.

Clean—at least moderately free of moss, lichen, vines and other foreign matter.

Healthy—fresh, natural appearance for particular species.

Well-trimmed—free of all barren branches below the first whorl and smoothly cut at the butt.

In addition, the specific requirements of each grade are:

U. S. Premium—not less than medium density; normal taper; and all four faces (sides) free from any type of damage.

U. S. No. 1 or U. S. Choice: not less than medium density; normal taper; and three damage-free faces.

U. S. No. 2 or U. S. Standard: light or better density; "candlestick," normal, or flaring taper; and at least two adjacent damage-free faces.

A few simple procedures can make the selection of a "perfect" Christmas tree easier.

Determine where in your home you will display your tree. With this in mind you will be able to tell what height tree you will need and whether all four sides must be suitable for display.

Select a tree that is the right height for the space you have chosen for it. Cutting large portions off either end will alter the natural taper of the tree.

Freshness is an important key when selecting your tree. The needles should be resilient, but not brittle. Run your finger down a branch—the needles should adhere to each twig.

Shake or bounce the tree on the ground lightly to see that the needles are firmly attached. If only a few drop off, the tree is fresh, and with proper care should retain its freshness indoors throughout the holiday season.

The limbs should be strong enough to hold ornaments and strings of electric lights, and the tree should have a strong fragrance and good green color for the species.

Check the tree for freshness, cleanliness, health and trimming. Following these steps should insure a healthy, attractive tree. But the care of your tree does not stop here.

If you buy your tree several days before it will be set up and decorated, store it outside. Cut the butt of the tree at a diagonal about one inch above the original cut—this opens the pores and aids in the absorption of water. Place the butt end in a container of water. Sprinkling water on the branches and needles will help retain freshness.

When you do bring it into the house, saw the butt again, squaring off the diagonal. This facilitates placing the tree in a stand as well as aiding absorption.

Keep the butt end of the tree in a container of water the entire time it is in the house. Refill the container daily as the tree requires a lot of water.

Be sure that the base of the tree is well-supported and the tree is placed away from fireplaces, radiators, electric heaters, televisions or any other source of heat.

Open flames, such as lighted candles, should never be used on or near the tree. In addition, never leave your home with the Christmas tree lights still on.

The longer the tree is indoors the more combustible it will become. Check electric light cords for fraying and worn spots that could easily lead to fires. Also do not overload the electric circuits. Be sure to avoid the use of combustible decorations.

Following these care and precaution measures should insure an attractive tree that stays fresh indoors for more than a week, and a holiday season free from Christmas tree mishaps.

Community's Responsibility To Enforce Law Says Howlett

The entire citizenry, not just the police department, should work for better law enforcement, Michael J. Howlett, state Auditor of Public Accounts, said.

Howlett was the featured speaker at a dinner of the Champaign County Law Enforcement Officers' Association in the Karavan Club in Rantoul.

He said the American policeman is doing an excellent job in spite of poor pay, inadequate training, long hours, dangerous work and many other handicaps.

"The burden of law enforcement should not be just the job of the policeman," he said. "As individual citizens, as community leaders, as public officials, we all have an obligation to improve the conditions under which a policeman must work.

"We should elect officials who insist on enforcing all laws uniformly. Nothing erodes respect for law more rapidly than selective enforcement.

"A man who steps from a home with illegal plumbing and wiring and then receives a ticket for jaywalking is bound to lose some respect for law.

"We should not burden policemen with still more unenforceable laws. For example, take all the laws concerned with alcohol. One in four of all arrests is for drunkenness.

"What must it mean to a policeman who, night after night, rounds up the same drunks and spends hours booking them? Wouldn't it help if we turned over this problem, with other health problems, to the doctors?

"We must do something about the availability of guns, especially hand guns. The President's Commission on Violence estimates there are 90 million firearms, including 24 million hand guns, in this country.

"In nine years, more than 550 policemen were killed in our country, mostly by hand guns.

"Americans pay $5 billion a year for police, prosecutors, courts and corrections. But we pay twice that much for tobacco and 2½ times as much for alcoholic beverages.

"More than what we are willing to pay is what we ask policemen to do. We ask them to inspect buildings, shelter pets, register bicycles and automobiles, conduct drivers' exams, give parking tickets and handle crowds at public events.

"Today a policeman must have a knowledge of chemistry, physiology, law, physics, and psychology. He deals with problems that did not exist as recently as ten years ago.

"Campus unrest as a police problem is only about six years old. Widespread drug abuse is only about three or four years old.

"If we could pay our policemen as professionals and could train them not just in first aid and marksmanship, but adequately for the 1970's, we would be doing a better job for law enforcement."
